The History of the Class of '24

It is an interesting task to weave together the many threads which go to make up the fabric of any history, but it is of special interest to compile the history of a class of which one has been a part, however small.

The seemingly inconsequential happenings take an added lustre when viewed in the light of a unit part of a completed epoch. Thus it is with a grateful sense of pleasure at being one of the graduating class of '24 that I have brought together what seems to be the most important items of the last four years.

In September of 1920, our class of 127 members, entered our dear old J. H. S. as Freshmen. I need not detail the overwhelming consciousness of at least most of us, as we found our places that first day, the cynosure of the eyes of the more sophisticated, and learned our way through the labyrinth of rooms.

However, that soon passed, and as a result of the friendliness, kind tact and never-failing patience of our principal and teachers, and the comaraderie of our new classmates, we soon began to feel at home, and a part of what was going on around us.

Victoria Barrett was elected President of our class. In December the Sophomores entertained us royally at the annual Sophomore-Freshman social.

During our Sophomore year our class had decreased to 118 members. By that time we felt very much acquainted and of great importance. The majority of the class were almost compelled to buy new hats because our heads had grown so much larger. J. C. Williams was elected President at our first class meeting and proved to be quite an able leader.

In February we entertained the Freshmen at the Sophomore-Freshman social and tried to do so as successfully as we had been entertained the preceding year. Later in the year we were very proud to think that J. C. and Jack Pfeiffer, another member of our class, were the directors of the Topic Staff Play, which was a roaring success.

By the time we were Juniors our class numbered eighty-two. J. C. Williams was again elected President. After the second term of that year began we were very busy with the preparations for the Junior-Senior reception. That, and the Topic Staff Play was about all that any one talked of. The Topic Staff Play proved to be another success under the careful management of J. C. and Jack.

TOPIC

And then, on May 22, came the never-to-be-forgotten Junior-Senior Reception. Will we ever forget the trepidation that was ours as the evening began, lest there should be some flaw in our plans! The evening passed off pleasantly and everyone seemed to enjoy himself. It seemed to me that night, that Old J. H. S. was the scene of a parade in gay Paree as the beautiful dresses flashed in and out, and the blue and gold decorations blended so harmoniously with the multi-colored splendor.

At last we are "dignified seniors," and are seventy-two in number. We are fortunate this year to have as our President, Melvin Clark, who has filled the position in a very satisfactory manner.

Our Senior class rings were ordered in November, and we got them after the Thanksgiving holidays.

Our class is very proud to have among its number three members of the famous basket ball team. Too much cannot be said in honor of this wonderful team. In spite of obstacles, large and small, they have forged right on, and now have the Championship of the Falls Cities. We also won the Tournament at Hanover and by only a stubborn streak of bad luck, missed going on to Indianapolis from the Richmond Tournament. Their playing has been superb, and no one who has witnessed their repeated victories can doubt the fame that will be theirs in the years to come, should they continue to play. After their return from Richmond they were kept busy for a few weeks, attending banquets given in their honor.

Our entire High School career has been a success, and it will be brought to a close by the social events of Commencement Week and the Commencement Exercises.

Last Will and Testament

We, the Senior Class of 1924, of Jeffersonville High School, Jeffersonville, Indiana, realizing the nearness of our departure from school life and while we are yet in possession of sound mind and body, do hereby make and declare this to be our last will and testament, and do appoint Mr. McCullum executor of this said will and testament.

I

The French heels of Anna May Drake we bequeath to Cleo Bailey.

II

We leave Roy Koehler's pompadour to Walter Tetley.

III

Nellie Lambert's slow and easy motions we bequeath to Elizabeth Huff.

IV

"Toby" Henry's wild, wild ways we leave to William Borders.

V

We leave Pauline Williams to Harry Stewart, and may their future be long and happy.

VI

We leave Mildred Dellinger's ride out in the country to Wayne Lamasters.

VII

We leave Bessie White to take care of herself, as she is too big a job for any one else.

VIII

To the students of J. H. S. we bequeath Giles Seward's ability as an "A" student (especially in Chemistry) and as the Editor-in-Chief of the best annual the senior class has ever put out.

IX

Dorothy Wilson's excellent soprano voice we leave to some screeching, though well-meaning, underclassman.

X

The ability of Doris Whitlow's "Grins and Groans" we bequeath to next year's joke editor.

XI

That chin of "Al" Scheer's, which gives a decided point when the owner is mad, we leave to Mr. Sage, so that his classes will know when he is lecturing them.

TOPIC

XII

We leave Vernelia Shelton's stunt book to add to the school library.

XIII

We leave Thelma Strief's compact which she loses so often, to Miss Funk, then notice, please, what will become of it!

XIV

If Eva Ward would appreciate it, we bequeath Lillie Woehrle's pretty bobbed hair.

XV

We bequeath to some beauty specialist the secret way of cutting bobbed hair, attained from our champion bobbed hair curler, Evelyn Sagabiel.

XVI

The knowledge of History stories in "Scotties" mind, we bequeath to Miss Rose as she may get some new material from them.

XVII

The ability to manage the business affairs of the staff, that Weber Schimpff has acquired, we leave to the Junior class, so that there will always be money to finance the Junior-Senior Reception.

XVIII

To Aleene Hunt we leave Virginia Dorsey's solemn Senior dignity.

XIX

We bequeath Victoria Barrett's good looks to some freckle-faced "Soph" who we know will be able to use them.

XX

The country home of Nell Hancock we leave to Mr. La Duke if he ever wishes to leave the metropolis of Port Fulton and go to be a son of the soil.

XXI

Epsel Hawes' straight black hair we bequeath to "Doc" Graham so that if he ever wishes to vasolene his hair and become a "Valentino" he can do so.

XXII

The basket ball ability shown by Helen Holden as guard on the Centralette quintette we bequeath to our coming first team of next season.

XXIII

The fiery eloquence of Edith Huff we bequeath to Miss Gauld so as to hold (in a basket) the attention of her music classes.

XXIV

The witty and cute remarks of Blanche Isler we bequeath to J. C. Wilson who can always use them.

XXV

The graceful swimming of Elizabeth Kendall we bequeath to Jane Holden when she becomes the champion high diver of the United States.

XXVI

That old familiar sneeze of Jeanette Knight's we bequeath to her sister Lucille, so that J. H. S. will never be without a "sneezer."

XXVII

To the coming Junior-Senior Literary Club we bequeath the luck of having as good a president as Helen Lancaster made for that organization in '24.

XXVIII

For Avis Berry to use when she has become a noted accountant, we leave some of the methods used by Mary Mayo in her daily study of Bookkeeping.

XXIX

The baby stare and "Mary Pickford" hair of Sarah Piercy we bequeath to that home wrecker, Helen Rauth.

XXX

That cunning smile of Herbert Dold we bequeath to Millard Tharp, so everyone will have the opportunity of seeing that beautiful dimple in his cheek.

XXXI

The slow easy going manner of Ellison Field we leave to "Housie" to make use of in some of his solo dances.

XXXII

The curly hair of Clifford Leap we bequeath to Mr. Theiss so that if he ever gets bald, it will match his missed-placed eyebrow.

XXXIII

To "K" Healy we leave Ernest Fisher's ability to quote poetry.

XXXIV

The shine on Johnny Hargesheimer's hair we bequeath to James Baird to use on his shoes.

XXV

From "Jimmie" Lancaster we leave the art of spitting through the vacancy of a front tooth to Eddie Williams.

XXXVI

The straight military bearing of Russell Lancaster we bequeath to "Bros" Ford.

XXXVII

The talent of acting of Jack Pfeffer we bequeath to Dick Barthelmess which will make him perfect.

XXXVIII

The perfect typewriting papers of "Bertie" Robinson we leave to Thelma Prinz if she ever takes that subject.

XXXIX

Those blarney speeches of "Sheik Sage" we bequeath to Herbert McGregor who is the coming fad of the season.

XL

To Kathleen Hendron we bequeath the drawing ability of our class artist, Martha Lee Poole, so that she will be as good when needed.

XLI

That most wonderful collection of earrings of Eva Reed's, collected from all parts of the globe we bequeath to Margaret Rose.

XLII

The wonderful ability of "sawing" a fiddle we leave to our "Edison" so that all classes after us can enjoy a master piece from Mary Jane Fleishman.

XLIII

To "Win" Scheer we bequeath the quiet and dignified manner of Lonzo Brummett.

XLIV

To Petie Dieble we leave the shyness of Floyd Christenson.

XLV

To the Juniors, who will soon take our place, and therefore take our place, we bequeath the manly dignity of our president, Melvin Clark.

XLVI

We leave George Lambert, Raymond Cole's book of car tickets so that he will always be supplied.

XLVII

The bright, golden hair of Dave Crandell we bequeath to Virginia Clegg to soften her features.

XLVIII

The church choir voice that Christinia Crum possesses we bequeath to "Bill" Payne.

XLIX

"Crummies" ability as a cook of fancy dishes we bequeath to Ruth Canter so that she shall hold "Norris'" affection forever.

L

To Ulmer Reash we bequeath Ella Dinsmore's ability to make a piano talk.

LI

We leave to Mellicent Scott, Mildred Diedrick's ability to go through four years of Latin with St. A's.

LII

From our little blond, Louise Ditzler, we bequeath to Anna E. Baggerly the essentials of making an actress.

LIII

From Fannie Ellis, our milk fed vamp, we bequeath to some lower classmate the means to capture "Simp" so that he will not be lonesome when "she" leaves.

LIV

We bequeath the quiet and serene manner of a violinist, Katherine Bange, to Ruth Watts, who we hope can use them.

LV

That old familiar giggle which "Janie" Bohon uses when laughing we leave to Ruth Prinz to add to her collection.

LVI

The art of making and figuring out shorthand characters that "Annie Laurie" Beuhler has acquired, we bequeath to the dumbest one in next year's shorthand class, 'cause they'll sure need it.

LVII

The melodious voice of Elizabeth Cauble we leave to Stewart Gross.

LVIII

To Charlie Dieble we bequeath Donald Weber's goggles in case Charles breaks his while looking for a girl.

LIX

We leave to any fickle young girl the luck of having a protecting aunt like Madeline Youmans in our play, "Much Ado About Betty."

LX

To Gerald McCullum we give Irvin Voigt's ability to write stories.

LXI

To Albert Stoner we leave George Beeson's ability to play a cornet.

LXII

The sweet ways of "Dottie" Baldwin which she has acquired from sugar pills, we bequeath to our "sour" Miss Lemmon.

LXIII

The senior dignity of Homer Smith we leave to Buss Himple.

1924
TOPIC

LXIV

To Miss Pangburn we leave the ability to hen peck "Benny" as Edrie Crone did Giles in "Much Ado About Betty."

LXV

To Oliver Kidder we leave Everett Stonecipher's happy-go-lucky way.

LXVI

The dancing step of Pearl Stewart we bequeath to Harold Rose.

LXVII

To Ida Gilmore we leave the quiet and unassuming ways of Lillie Woehrle.

LXVIII

To "Sadie" Hancock we bequeath Alvah Landwehr's ability as a perfect lover.

LXIX

The stately height of Neva Williams we leave to Martha McKee.

LXX

The success of this season's "Wonder Five" we bequeath to our fellow sufferers of Scottsburg.

LXXI

We bequeath to Mr. Gregg a copy of all of "Norrisy's" shorthand characters to use in putting out an advanced book on shorthand.

LXXII

To our two janitors we leave our sincerest thanks for the many services rendered us in our stay here.

LXXIII

We bequeath to the Juniors our class room number 14, with all the desks, ink bottles, text books, and any other paraphernalia which may be found in the said room.

LXXIV

To Miss Frank we wish to leave our hearty thanks for the assistance rendered us in our last semesters work at J. H. S. If there be any Latin ponies hanging around we give to Miss Frank also, so that she shall always get to school on time.

LXXV

Any entanglements which may arise we leave to our advisory "Board": Mrs. McQuiddy, Miss Hauss, Miss Frank, Mr. Temple, and Mr. Sage.

To this our last will and testament we, the aforesaid class of 1924, set our hand and seal, this 12th day of April, 1924.

DORIS WHITLOW, '24.

Class Prophecy

Being very lonely and tired from working in my Radio Research Laboratory, which is located in the low rent district in the suburbs of Utica, I decided to take a tour of the U. S. This was started on February 29th, 1934.

Bright and early in the morning of that day I jumped in my airplane and went to Jeffersonville to buy some clothes and the first store I came to was Sage's Clothing Store. From the looks of the show window I thought that this was a very stylish place so I went in: No sooner had I stepped on the inside when George Sage, one of my old school mates met me with a smile.

I was very much surprised to see him and I asked him if he knew of any of the other members of the Class of '24. He smiled and said that Miss Louise Ditzler had kindly consented to become a Sage, and that Clifford Leap and Elizabeth Kendall were living very peacefully next door to his residence. He also stated that Al Landwehr had proposed to Miss Holden but as much as any one could find out, she had not as yet accepted. So as I was in a hurry I got what little goods I wanted and left the store.

As I was going down Market Street I met Giles Seward who told me that he held the position of Manufacturing Chemist for Colgate and Co., and that Roy Koehler was his office manager. This was of great interest to me, for they were both classmates of mine.

It was now about noon, and after looking about for a restaurant, I thought of The Clark Hotel. As it was only three blocks away I went around to the Hotel but found that it was too late for a regular dinner. The manager, whom I recognized to be "Herbie" Scott, said that they would take short orders, so I walked back to the nearest table and sat down. Presently up came the short order clerk who was Alfred Scheer. He was very much surprised to see me and had many questions to ask. But I was in a hurry to get away so I didn't talk to him very long.

My next stop was Indianapolis. I was just one hour making the flight, but when I landed I was surprised to see a policeman running in my direction. He looked as if he could have bitten a ten-penny nail in two, but as he came nearer, his expression changed, and I heard a hearty laugh. By this laugh I knew him to be Raymond Cole. I shook hands with him and asked the trouble. He said that Mayor Smith had placed a law that no airplanes could light on public property. But as I knew Mayor Smith as Homer Smith, I thought I was as large as he, so I let the plane set.

I stayed in the city over night and the next day went to the Auto Races in which Floyd Christensen flashed across the line a winner, just ahead of last year's king, "Tommy" Milton. After the races, Mayor Smith and I attended a show in which Jack Pfeffer was the leading man.

After the show I found that I just had time to get in Chicago by dark, but by a slight misfortune I didn't reach there until 8:00 P. M. I found the city to be in great disorder. Everyone was on the streets. There were fire works, there were parades, and all the business houses were already closed. I went to the nearest hotel and registered for the night. While there I inquired of the clerk what all of the excitement was about. He said that the city was celebrating the election of Merrit Norris as Royal Dragon of the Klu Klux. After he finished telling me about it, I went up to bed and could hardly sleep for thinking about all my old classmates that I had seen the past two days.

The next morning at ten o'clock I went to a musical program given by the King of the Ivories and accompanied by a great violinist. I wondered who these people could be, but being seated the tenth row back I could not see the pianist's face. The program said that Mrs. Clark would play her own composition upon the violin. I thought the face looked familiar but could not think of any Clark that could play a violin. I sat for nearly one hour trying to place her, but could not. I was about to give it up when the pianist turned and smiled to the audience. I was so excited and happy that I said aloud, "O, its "Vic" Barrett and Mary Jane Fleishman." From there on the program didn't interest me for I wanted to speak to them. Finally when it was over I quickly went to the stage and had a long talk with them. I found that Mary Jane had dropped the "Fleishman" part and accepted the name of Clark. Melvin went ahead and arranged the dates at the theatres for the musicians.

"Vic" also told me that when she was in Detroit she saw Nell Hancock, Vernilia Shelton, and Bessie White who had fine positions as teachers of Latin, Shorthand and Literature in the High School of that city. When I read the evening paper there was a long article about the wonderful playing of the talented musicians, written by Ellison Field. This also pleased me for he was another student of J. H. S. who came out in '24.

The following morning I left Chicago for San Francisco. This was a long journey but I arrived safely and on record time. While here, I was surprised to read in the paper one morning that a new picture, "Hoosiers from Hoosierdom" was just released and the characters playing in it consisted of Claribel Crum, Sarah Peirce, Fannie Ellis, Evelyn Sagabiel, and Anna May Drake. Of course there were others, but these interested me because they were classmates of my class. It may also be interesting to mention that while here I met George Beeson, Dave Crandell, "Jimmie" Lancaster, and Charles Henry who went there to finish their education and get the P. D. Q. which they could not obtain in Jeff. High.

Things being rushed at home I thought I would return. On my return trip I stopped at Denver to see the wonderful sights. The first thing that I noticed was that Edrie Crone and Edith Huff were still as thick as of High School days and conducting a Ladies' ready to wear shop. The next thing I attended was a foot race in which Weber Schimpff was a winner over Charlie Paddock. But this was only a side line business for Weber because he was a popular confectioner of the town.

I also noticed that J. H. S. was well represented in the Red Cross Hospital work by Susie Beck, Blanche Isler, Epsel Hawes and Elizabeth Cauble.

I was here but one day and then called over to Oklahoma to the Indian territory by Governor Dold whom I knew in my school days. He took me through the Indian settlements and I was surprised to see Eva Reed, Nellie Lambert, and Martha Lee Poole trying to teach the Indian children their A. B. C.'s. Of course I was glad to see Indiana teachers so far west.

My next stop was in Kansas City, and here to my surprise, I found Anna Laura Buehler, Jeanette Knight and Jane Wells Bohon conducting a large millinery shop, obtaining their styles from their old home of Jeffersonville.

While still in Kansas, I visited the Auto school and was glad to see teaching there, Donald Weber and Johnnie Hargesheimer, two more from my school.

Next I visited Memphis, Tenn., and it was at this place where the great excitement came, that President Stewart had died of heart failure, and Vice-President Ernest Stonecipher had died of a broken arch, no heart, because Ernest Fisher had run away with his girl, Mary Mayo.

While here I had frequent headaches and so I went to a noted physician, Dr. Lonzo Brummett, for treatment. He just put a few sugar pills in a bottle, poured a little whiskey over them and said they would cure me. Lonzo had just received a love note from his fiancée, Alberta Robinson, telling him that Madeline Newkirk had just been put in the marriage list by the first woman magistrate, Doris Whitlow.

At this time, Dorothy Baldwin, and Katherine Bange were taking advanced music from Ella Dinsmore, a famous teacher.

The next stop was Louisville, Ky. The evening I arrived there was a little bout between Dempsey and Russel Lancaster in which "Rustie" put him to sleep in the fifth round, thus taking the belt from him.

I was invited over to the Y. W. C. A. to a banquet and while there learned that Helen Lancaster and Neva Williams had charge of the management of the institution and that Madeline Youmans was turning out many winning basketball teams.

Helen told me that Christinia Crum, Pauline Williams, Dorothy Wilson, and Lillie Woehrle had fine clerical positions in different banks and insurance companies in Louisville, Ky. After taking my little trip, I returned to my laboratory, very happy that I had again seen my classmates of '24.

SECOND TEAM BASKETBALL 23-24

MIDGETS

First Team

J. H. S. experienced its most successful basket ball season during the 1923-'24 campaign. Not only did we win the Falls City Championship, but also won the sectional tournament. We lengthened our record of not being defeated on our home floor to four years, and only losing one scholastic game on the road this year.

The personnel of the team is as follows: William (Bill) Campbell, Capt., '23-'24. Guard, always on the job. This was Bill's second year and he has two more. Merritt (Norissy) Norris, Capt., '22-'23. Guard, and best guard in the three falls cities. He has played two years but this was his last.

Herbert (Fats) McGregor, Center. Fats has played two years and has one more left. He always gets the jump.

Alfred (Red) Scheer, Forward. One of the best floor men and shots in the State. This is his last year after playing two years. Herbert (Moonie) Scott, Forward. High point man for this season. "Scottie" will also be gone next year, he has played three years.

William (Bud) McGregor, Guard. Bud, although not a regular, was always steady. He has played one year and has two more.

James (Jim) Lancaster, Forward. Although not a regular, always came through in a pinch. He will be lost by graduation.

1924 TOPIC

Laurent (Dutch) Cowling, Center. Always dependable. This was his first season but he played like a regular.

Carl (Diz) Reschar, Center. A fighter from the ground up. "Diz" has one more year.

Elbridge (Rub) Morris, Guard. Rub has played two years and has one more to play.

Kenneth (Ken) Rancy, Forward. This was Ken's first year but he has two more, and we are hoping for him to come through and win a regular berth next year.

ORGANISATIONS

Argufiers

The Argufiers have just completed another successful year. We have a majority of underclassmen enrolled and are expecting a powerful debating machine next fall, under the splendid sponsorship of Mr. Callahan. At nearly every meeting this year, interesting debates and discussions have been held, and many have shown their talent along this line. The annual banquet was held at the end of the school year.

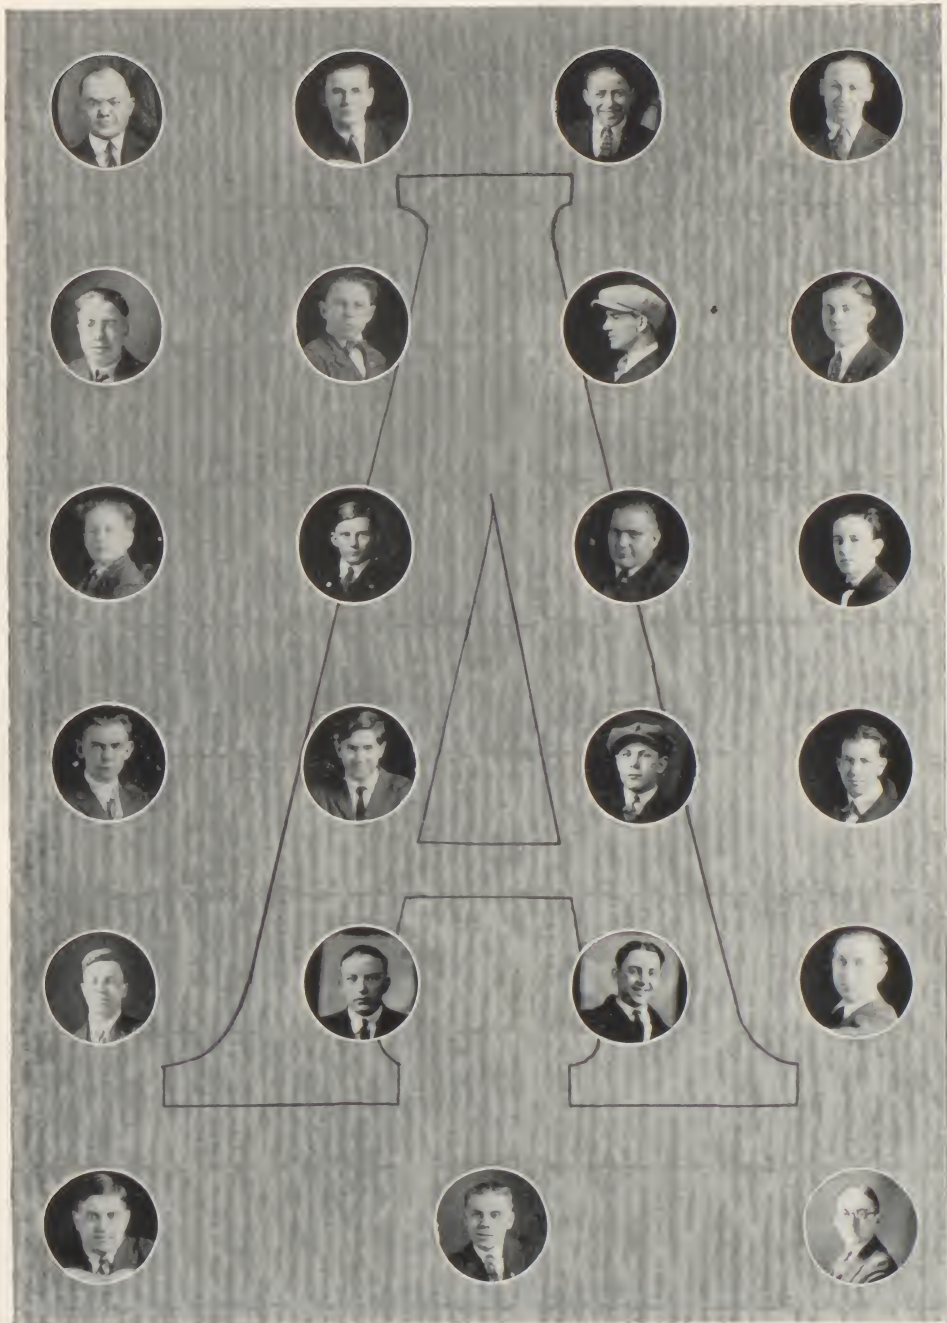

The following are the officers:

THOMAS PINCKLY	-----	President

Under sponsorship of Miss Goldie Fertig, the R. S. V. P. re-organized this year, the first meeting being held March 8th. New officers were elected as follows:

HELEN KERN	President
JEWEL McCORD	Vice President
HELEN BRENDEN	Secretary
MARGARET ROSE	Treasurer

So far this year we have had quite a few debates which proved very helpful to all members. Some very interesting and important questions were discussed. Most of them never before debated but they are readily showing their ability. At the rate we are now going we hope some day to be the best organization J. H. S. has ever had and we can only be so by the help of the members, students, and faculty.

Chemistry Club

The Jeffersonville High School Chemistry Club was organized Wednesday, September 28, 1923, with Miss Ruth Hasely as sponsor. All persons who were taking chemistry were eligible as members of the club. This being the case, the interesting reports on chemicals and their part in life, which were given at every meeting, were received with much satisfaction. As all members knew something about chemistry, these reports were appreciated by every one.

For a final meeting of the club, a banquet was held at the Clark Hotel, Friday, May 16th, 1924.

The Hi-Y Club

The Hi-Y Club has experienced a very successful year. Much good was done by the Older Boys' Conference of the Seymour district, which was held at this school, April 4th and 5th. Twelve cities were represented and after the conference, Hi-Y Clubs were organized in several of these schools. The meetings have always been interesting and too much praise cannot be given Mr. Callahan, the sponsor, for his helpful guidance.

The officers who were elected in February are:

Junior and Senior Literary Club

Although small in size since being separated from the Freshmen and Sophomores, the Junior-Senior girls Literary Club has had a very enjoyable year with Miss Lemmon as the sponsor. Sophomore-Freshman Girls Literary Club

At the beginning of the year there was but one Literary Club of which Miss Lemmon was sponsor. The membership increased until it was necessary that the club be divided. The Freshmen and the Sophomores were put in one club under the sponsorship of Miss Hauss, while the Juniors and Seniors remained under the sponsorship of Miss Lemmon.

During the Christmas season we gave a party and invited the ladies of the Faculty. Ida Gilmore made a small but competent Santa Claus. There were Christmas gifts for all and refreshments were served in the cafeteria.

The meetings have been made interesting through varied programs given by the members of the club. Several one act plays have been presented.

The officers this year are:

EDYTHE WILSON	-----	President
FAYE SWARTZ	-----	Vice President
ELOISE WEBER	-----	Treasurer
HELEN WEBER	-----	Secretary

A party closed our meetings for the years '23 and '24.

Louisville College of Pharmacy

INSTITUTED 1870

INCORPORATED 1873

The fifty-fifth annual session (1924-25) will open October 1, 1924.

The course leading to the degree of Graduate in Pharmacy (Ph. G.) is completed in two years. This will apply to students matriculating for the 1924-25 session.

Beginning with the fifty-sixth session (1925-26) three years attendance will be required to complete the course.

The entrance requirements call for a general education equivalent to four years of high school work.

There is a great demand for competent pharmacists.

High school graduates should take advantage of the college course of instruction to qualify for the opportunities presented in Pharmacy.

BE PRACTICAL

The young man in love often goes in raptures about "the blue of the sea in her eyes and the golden haze of autumn in her hair," but remember this, young man—SHE'LL EAT just the same as any other healthy girl.

Therefore get down to practical affairs. Save your money, deposit it in a good reliable bank like ours and get ready to own a home for you and the girl and to provide the three square meals a day that you will both need as long as you live. You know, when poverty comes in at the door, love sometimes flies out at the window.
